PENROSE, LODGE, CRANE AND
BARNES SAID TO AGREE
ON NOMINATION.Sutherland Avers Colonel Deserts
New Party by the Latin-American Tour.

(By Sumner Curtis, in the Chicago Record-Herald)

Washington, D. C.—Everybody seems to be talking and speculating and gossiping about Theodore Roosevelt and the movement to make him the candidate of the republicans for president in 1916—everybody except those progressives who broke the old home ties the last year with so much noise in the breaking that they hardly dare think of returning, even by way of the back gate.

Yesterday and today the eastern newspapers, having discovered the "movement," devoted many columns of space to it.

New York and Washington newspapers in particular, regardless of their feeling toward Roosevelt, regard it as an undisputed fact that nomination for Roosevelt while those plans are being made to capture the vigorously opposed to the former president do not hesitate to indicate that even the standpat republicans are looking for Roosevelt as their savior in the next national contest.

Immediately on the heels of the original announcement of the "national fusion" movement, came an interview with Senator Sutherland, wired across the continent from his home in Salt Lake City, expressing the belief that Roosevelt would be a candidate for the republican nomination next time. Among the reasons given for this and the added belief that the former president will win the nomination, the senator mentioned the dwindling progressive vote in recent elections.

Then he asserted that Roosevelt himself had virtually deserted the progressives, not giving them even a word of encouragement in the late contest in Maine. Col. Roosevelt, he said, soon will leave for South America, to be gone until after the congressional elections next year, and that without his personal leadership the progressive party rapidly will disintegrate.

The Sutherland interview created consternation among some of the conservative republicans in the senate who, although inclined to believe that Roosevelt would be a candidate for the republican nomination, expressed disapproval of an open utterance from one who in the last contest at Chicago was one of Taft's leaders. They say the next campaign is a long way off, that there is possibility that the country will become disgusted with democratic rule in the meantime and that it will be possible not only to nominate but elect a "regular" republican. But no one doubts the movement to make Roosevelt the candidate and hardly a one who doubts that Roosevelt himself is figuring on leading the republicans.

Atop the Sutherland interview come dispatches from Philadelphia, saying that none other than Boies Penrose was preparing to accept Roosevelt as the inevitable and coupled with the information were stories that former Senator Crane, Senator Lodge and perhaps even "Boss" Barnes of New York would take up Roosevelt as the means of bringing the progressives back into the fold, and enable the republicans to present a strong fight against Wilson—or whoever the democratic candidate may be.

A not improbable result of the public talk that has started and especially the exploitation of standpat views nominally favorable to his candidacy is a hot volley of denunciation of the old party and its leaders, and possibly a repudiation of the "movement" by professional friends that have been announced. This will bring joy to those progressives who have pinned their hopes politically on the sometime supremacy of the new party; it will convince them—smoothly under the surface.

USE OF OUTLINES
IS HELD UNLAWFULATTORNEY GENERAL LUCEY
GIVES UNOFFICIAL OPINION ON THE QUESTION.

DEFINES TERMS OF STATEMENT

Holds That Trot, Out and Set Lines and Trawls Are Prohibited
By the Law.

According to an opinion of Patrick J. Lucey, attorney general of state of Illinois, the use of trot lines, out lines, set lines and long lines or trawls is forbidden by the law under which Rock river was made a state fish preserve and which states that the use of anything but "rod and line or hand lines" is forbidden in the stream.

Attorney General Lucey's opinion is of great interest to all fishermen along Rock river, which is the only fish preserve in the state, inasmuch as many have been of the opinion that outlines can be used. The opinion of the attorney general was secured by the Dixon Fishing club through its secretary, Jos. W. Staples and is in full as follows:

Meaning of "Hand Line."

"I have your favor of the 18th instant, in which you request an interpretation of the meaning of the word 'hand line' as used in the fish and game conservation act.

In Webster's New International Dictionary, the word 'hand line' is defined to mean a fish line, used without a rod. The meaning of this word is sometimes confused with the words 'trot line, out line, set line, and long line, or trawls.'

"A 'trot line' is defined in Webster's International Dictionary as follows:

"A stout line reaching across a stream or for some distance from one bank, bearing at frequent intervals single hooks hung by short lines."

"An 'out line' is defined as a set line, and a 'set line' is defined as follows:

"A line to which a number of baited hooks are attached and which supported by a buoy, is extended on the surface of the water."

"I am of the opinion that the legislature, in specifically designating 'hand lines and rod and lines' as devices with which fish may be caught in the state fish preserves, did not intend to include 'trot lines, out lines, set lines, long lines or trawls,' and that the use of the last named devices in the waters of the state set apart by the State Game and Fish Commission as state fish preserves would be unlawful."

The Sutherland interview created consternation among some of the conservative republicans in the senate who, although inclined to believe that Roosevelt would be a candidate for the republican nomination, expressed disapproval of an open utterance from one who in the last contest at Chicago was one of Taft's leaders. They say the next campaign is a long way off, that there is possibility that the country will become disgusted with democratic rule in the meantime and that it will be possible not only to nominate but elect a "regular" republican. But no one doubts the movement to make Roosevelt the candidate and hardly a one who doubts that Roosevelt himself is figuring on leading the republicans.

Then he asserted that Roosevelt himself had virtually deserted the progressives, not giving them even a word of encouragement in the late contest in Maine. Col. Roosevelt, he said, soon will leave for South America, to be gone until after the congressional elections next year, and that without his personal leadership the progressive party rapidly will disintegrate.

HEAR LUTZ CASE
ON SATURDAY AFT.JUDGE FARRAND WILL ACT ON MASTER-IN-CHANCERY REPORT.

An interesting case is set for hearing in the circuit court for Saturday at 1 p.m., when Judge Farrand will act on the report of Master-in-Chancery A. C. Bardwell in the sale of the 500 acres of land of the late John A. Lutz.

It will be remembered that after the sale of this land at partition sale to several purchasers, the receipts of which were over $100,000, E. A. Leptien, a grandson, attacked the order of the county court refusing the will of Mr. Lutz for probate. Because of the action and the carrying of the case to the circuit court, the purchasers of the land refused to pay for the same on the grounds that the deed and abstracts can not be merchantable because of the pending suits.

The hearing Saturday will therefore be of interest, as it will either result in the purchasers being relieved from their bids, or in their being protected by the court pending the outcome of the proceedings to have the will admitted to probate.

The court was especially quiet today, the cases which had been set for hearing having been settled and the jury excused until 9 o'clock on Thursday morning. Tomorrow Judge Farrand will recall the docket to revise and enlarge the trial list.

DIXON OPERA HOUSE
WAS LEASED TODAYLAVERNE CIRCUIT GAINS CON-TROL OF LOCAL PLAYHOUSE AND OTHERS.

The Laverne Vaudeville circuit, represented by Al Yeager, signed a lease for the Dixon opera house today, Manager Starin releasing the big theatre to the Chicago firm and retiring from active connection with it.

The Laverne circuit has also leased the Academy of Music at Sterling and the Lyric theatre in Morrison, and the three theatres will be run in a businesslike and standard manner.

One feature the new management intends to inaugurate is a show every evening. They plan to have one big attraction here each week, and the remaining nights will be taken up with vaudeville, tabloids, musical comedies, etc. A local manager has not yet been assigned.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

In all the world there are less than three times as many miles of railway as there are in the United States alone.

The popular belief that the Panama railroad was constructed at a cost of one life for every railroad mile is a gross exaggeration. There were 140,000 ties and in the five years of its construction a total of 7,000 laborers were employed.

LICENSED TO WED

A marriage license was issued today to Edward M. Guntherberg of Chicago and Miss Caroline Bulfer of Sublette.

Yours respectfully, temporarily, anyway—that their leaders can't be swerved from swimming, and sinking, if need be, with them.

But it will not fool the shrewd old stagers. The latter say they understand Roosevelt better than some fellows who assume to be in his confidence and who sometimes take a great deal of pride in advertising the things he says to them. The shrewd old stagers will point to the fact that two years ago, when those whom Roosevelt himself might describe as "the self-important little men who frequently perform a useful service" were declaring from personal knowledge that Roosevelt would not be a candidate for the presidency, the plans were working smoothly under the surface.

A not improbable result of the public talk that has started and especially the exploitation of standpat views nominally favorable to his candidacy is a hot volley of denunciation of the old party and its leaders, and possibly a repudiation of the "movement" by professional friends that have been announced. ## WEB-WORM DAMAGES ALFALFA

University Entomologist's Office Engaged in Campaign Against White Grubs.

D. K. MacMillan of the University of Illinois, field assistant of Dr. S. A. Forbes, state entomologist, was here today on official business. He has had reports of white grubs in the fields in certain sections of this county, and is here to study the matter and help the farmers of this vicinity toward eradicating the pest, if he can do so.

The grubs were very bad in this section last year and the year before but have not been so troublesome this season. They are apparently becoming fewer, but they may increase again next year. Mr. MacMillan is also studying the wire-worm and the web-worm, the latter being a little spotted, brownish colored worm about three-quarters of an inch in length, which is destroying young alfalfa in some parts of the state, in DeKalb county, for instance, where the whole fields of the August plant of alfalfa is killed out by the worms. The web-worm is also an enemy to clover.

The white grubs do most damage to corn, and rotation is about the only means of defense. In Winnebago county this year Mr. MacMillan says he found as many as 63 grubs in one hill of corn and many hills contained forty by actual count. A square foot of sod turned up will often disclose twenty of them. They are the larvae of the June bug, laid in the grass. The grubs live about three years under ground before becoming adult June bugs and taking to the air. The state expert will spend several days investigating in this vicinity.

Relief Corps Meeting

The Woman's Relief Corps held their regular meeting at the G. A. R. hall Monday afternoon with forty-five members present. After the regular business Mrs. Nellie Eastman, district inspector, instructed the members for the drill to be given Oct. 27th when the department president and instructor will be here, and Oct. 28th the District Convention will be held at Amboy, which a goodly number from here expect to attend.

Mesdames Marie L. Green and Augusta Mitchell spoke of receiving letters from Mesdames Carrie Myers and Minnie Horseman of Portland, Ore., who hold prominent offices in the department lodge of that state. Both ladies were held in high esteem while living in Dixon. Mrs. Myers was familiarly known as "Ma Myers," because of the kindly interest she took in the welfare of the younger people who made their homes with her and attended college. Mrs. Horseman is her daughter, and previous to her marriage was a popular saleslady at the O. H. Brown Dry Goods store. For several years they have lived in Portland where congratulations and best wishes were sent by a vote of the Corps.

A number of needy persons have received aid and sick members remembered with fruit and flowers, which were acknowledged heartily by the recipients.

Gehant-Hahn

(From West Brooklyn News)
Tuesday morning Sept. 16th, at 9 o'clock occurred the ceremony which united the lives of Miss Isabelle Gehant and George C. Hahn. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Michael B. Krug of St. Mary's church and was witnessed by a very large circle of relatives and friends. Upon the approach of the couple at the church, Miss Clara Oester played the strains of a grand wedding march. With the couple in the march were Misses Edna and Mae Gehant and Fred Hahn and William Gehant. Miss Mabel Gehant also accompanied the party, bearing the nuptial ring for her sister. The maids of honor are cousins of the bride, while the best man was a brother of the groom and was assisted by the bride's brother. The men were all dressed in black. The bride wore a gown of rich white satin trimmed with rhine stones and other silver materials. She bore a bridal veil with lilies of the valley in her hair, and carried a large bouquet of white roses. The maids were both dressed in yellow messaline silk with hats to match. They carried yellow roses.

After the church ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Gehant on Woods street and were joined by the brothers and sisters in the wedding breakfast and wedding dinner which followed. The home was decorated in white and yellow and proved to be a very jolly place throughout the entire day. During the afternoon the wedding party was dismissed long enough to go to the photographer's shop where photos were taken to serve as a remembrance of the day's events in after years. Messrs. Frank Herman and Harry Christensen assisted the party to reach the photographer with their motor cars.

That evening Mr. and Mrs. Hahn left for Chicago where they will remain on their honeymoon until corn husking time. During the winter they will take up their home on the Stout farm owned by the bride's father, where they will be happy to welcome all their relatives and friends to their abode.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Gehant of this city and has always been popular with the young people of West Brooklyn. The groom is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Hahn of Viola township and by his genial ways and kind disposition has made friends of every acquaintance. We extend our congratulations to the newly married couple and trust that their lives

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT GRAVES CENTER

(Overland Cable, Delayed in Transmission.)

While assisting in laying planks at the crossing of the street car line over Vesuvius avenue, a heavy plank fell on the foot of City Clerk George Short. A finger was crushed while unloading ties in our sister metropolis of Nelson. The clerk suffered painfully at both ends, says the Daily Yowl. Dr. J. C. Curtiss, lately appointed head of the city board of health, in place of Dr. W. S. Dunham resigned, was at once summoned. He threw down his shovel, examined the crushed member, ordered the tool house to be made ready for an emergency hospital, sent an Italian alderman for a sledge, and prepared to amputate the clerk's finger with a track chisel. At this critical moment Mayor Graves interfered, and advised waiting for gangrene.

Regarding the crushed foot, in an interview with the reporter, Clerk Short made the following statement:

"My foot feels as if a Big Z had run over it, and my big toe is sure on the bum."

Again Dr. Curtiss was summoned to hold an ante-mortem examination.

On removing the shoe he found that the whole foot had already turned black and said that unless immediate attention were given, the whole clerk would become "bummy." Hot water and soap were applied and the doctor began to massage as if he were working in a garage. At the end of an hour a sock was found an Italian alderman had been accused of stealing six months before. Further efforts "unearthed" the fact that the discoloration was not gangrene, but ballast that the clerk had picked up along the line, but which he had neglected to remove. He is again at work, but complains of one cold foot.

The mayor of Graves Center keeps a horse which eats occasionally. This city official declares he is going to build a silo as soon as he can pick wreckage enough along the L. C. R. R. Graves Centerites have been wondering at the frequent mishaps on the unfortunate line.

Compton, Sept. 22—There was a heavy frost this morning in this locality.

Over 200 tickets were sold for Amboy from this station last Thursday.

The pupils of the Bauer school, Charlie Marshall, teacher, won some first prizes in manual training work.

We believe our county fair is improving yearly and the management deserves the encouragement of the people.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clapp returned Thursday from Sioux Rapids, Iowa, after two weeks' visit with relatives and friends.

The upper room of our school was closed last week during the absence of Rev. Claypool, who went to Montana to register for the government land drawing late in the fall. As a result many of the scholars attended the fair.

Mrs. Forest Trowbridge of Ionia, Mich., is the guest of Mrs. A. W. Chandler.

Miss Mamie Frye of Mendota has been visiting Mrs. Paul Krings and family. She returned home Friday morning.

Mrs. Regina Gilmore accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Barrett left Friday for Sioux Rapids, Ia., to spend the winter.

Mrs. Herman Miller of Mendota entered Chandler hospital some days ago in a critical condition. In spite of the best medical attention she passed away Monday of last week. The funeral services were held Wednesday in Mendota. The deceased's childhood home was at Malugin's Grove. She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband, three children, mother, Mrs. Girton, and one sister, Mrs. J. Rhoads, and many warm friends.

WEST BROOKLYN

The Big Dance of the season is coming. Oct. 15th.

Joseph J. Barr motored to town on business Friday morning.

How do you expect us to fill these columns when everybody is in Amboy this week attending the fair? Merely quoting their names would occupy several columns, but this would be an impossibility. So there you are.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harthan visited here Thursday.

Mrs. Henry Hildmann is the guest of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wigum, in Oregon, this week.

The village officials are having another siege with the city water plant and were kept on the jump throughout Thursday and Friday endeavoring to right the wrong. The pump rods broke apart again and as always this is a difficult task to work at in catching hold of the lower portion of the rods which have broken away from the upper lengths.

George Kessler was here from South Brooklyn on business Friday.

Amel Criss of Mendota motored her Thursday afternoon in his auto.

Amel Cardot transacted business here Thursday forenoon.

It has been estimated that at least one thousand persons were on the extra train running through West Brooklyn Thursday taking people to the Amboy fair from points this side from Shabbona along the line.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Barnickel visited here Thursday.

The local school was dismissed Wednesday evening for the remainder of the week to permit the faculty and pupils to attend the Lee county fair and learn the lessons to be studied there. The school exhibit on the grounds conducted by County Superintendent L. W. Miller was both pleasing to view and instructive. This exhibit was to be found in the fair hall.

Frank Knauer, while attending the fair Thursday, met with a mishap to his auto. The chain around one of the wheels caught in the fender of the machine and threw the car into a bridge, doing considerable injury.

The moving picture show and illustrated lecture in the opera house on Thursday night drew an immense crowd here and everyone seemed to enjoy the entertainment very much.

The pictures were very interesting, and even those not accustomed to the farm and its ways of work could not put too much attention to the screen and notice the various machines from their first inception to the present modern outfit now in use.

The crude affairs of years back drew laughter and much comment about how the early farmer could endure with such machinery. It is amazing to note the big contrast between a modern farm home and such a home fifty or a hundred years ago.

Mrs. Forest Trowbridge of Ionia, Mich., is the guest of Mrs. A. W. Chandler.

Miss Mamie Frye of Mendota has been visiting Mrs. Paul Krings and family. She returned home Friday morning.

will all the agent can tell you is "that it is the best in the world" and immediately starts to run down all other companies and their policies, and tells you about all other policies of which he knows nothing at all, he is pretty apt to disgust you and you watch the opportunity to escape him. He does not prove any thing to you about his own policy because he can not. He does not know anything about other policies which he runs down but still he tells you all about then. Isn't it ridiculous? Why some insurance agents have become so infested with tearing down other companies in their minds and to their customers or prospects that they have even forgotten to tell which company they were representing. But mark well, The Illinois Life Insurance Co. does guarantee its policies and further than this they guaranteed the insured more money than he had paid to the company at the end of his policy period.

This guarantee is what hurts other agents who represent companies who do not guarantee in the manner of the Illinois Life. They cannot fully answer your question of "What do I get for my money," when you compare them with an Illinois Life Policy. You want all you can get for your money and when you are guaranteed more money in one policy than you are in another you are pretty apt to select the bigger guaranteed policy.

Still the other agent will persist in saying his company and his policy are the best in the world. He cannot prove it, but still he tells it. The Illinois Life will gladly furnish you any information about the worth of their policies. They are proud of their guaranteed policy and have reason to be so. The Illinois Life is represented by H. F. & O. L. Gehant in West Brooklyn. These gentlemen invite your consideration of Illinois' Great Company.

Joel Johnson of Compton was a visitor here Friday.

The carpenters are making good progress with the erection of the new buildings for F. J. Gehant on the Hutchinson place occupied by Gustie Gehant.

J. F. Bernardin and H. F. Gehant went to Grays' Lake Thursday evening on business matters.

West Brooklyn Cornet Band was in Amboy Wednesday furnishing music for the Lee County Fair Association. The day was very gloomy and several times during the day it rained. Not minding these little difficulties the boys played all day long and even until after night fall in order to oblige the visitors at the fair who were beat out of the usual entertainments by the weather man. The boys played faithfully, and when at 9 o'clock they quit to return home, they were the recipients of much praise for their work by the officials as well as scores of visitors. A large crowd from West Brooklyn followed the band to the fair Wednesday, and were pleased to know that their town was being so well advertised by the musical ability of the boys.

We'll venture to say that the West Brooklyn Cornet band is the best advertising medium the village of West Brooklyn has. It advertises the entire town and name of this place as such as none other of its institutions or organizations can do.

F. H. Delholth returned home Friday night from Portsmouth, Ohio after spending a month with relatives and friends in his old home.

Eugene Delholth returned with him, and will remain in our vicinity some time as the guest of his many relatives and friends.

Harmon Bates and family of Marion, Ia., are visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. John Schoenholz returned on Wednesday from Sheffield, where she visited her parents.

The Fertile Valley young people will give a home talent-play entitled "Kentucky Belle," Saturday evening, Sept. 27, at Schoenholz Hall, Scarborough.

The only sure way to combat the present high cost of living is to produce more and better poultry.

What excuse has the farmer for not raising more poultry when eggs are 25 cents the year round, and table fowls never less than 15 cents a pound? He has none whatever.

As a rule, the women are supposed to be the "boss" of the country industry at the farm home.

The farmer can buy thoroughbred stock and hogs, but when the wife wants better blood for the farm flock it is refused her.

I remember one incident that clearly illustrates this. One day I happened to visit a prosperous farmer and his wife, and naturally I was anxious to see their poultry, for I believe that one of the really sure ways of judging a person is by the way they manage their poultry. I had been telling the farmer and his wife of the coops that I had built for my poultry, and was trying to explain to them how much "handier" it was to have the chickens in coops than in old barrels and boxes.

The wife became interested and asked me what my coops cost me. I told her that it would take about $4.00 worth of material, and that if she would get it, I would make her a coop while I was there. She at once became very anxious to have a coop, but her husband didn't put much stock in those "new-fangled coops of yours," and said that he would make an "A" coop out of some old barrels that would be "just as good" as my hand and sanitary coop.

Is it any wonder that the housewife is not improving her poultry as fast as her husband improves stock, when he refuses to allow her to, and yet she has no objection when he wishes to introduce new blood into his herd. My advice to farmers is to allow the wives to do what they wish with the poultry, and to be around when it comes time to clean the houses and coops. One cannot realize the benefits to be derived from poultry until you go about it in a systematic way.

Therefore, let everyone unite in giving Uncle Sam "better poultry and more of it."

FOREST NOTES.

Washington stands first in lumber production, with Louisiana in second place.

It is said that 90,000,000 broom handles are used annually in this country; one for each man, woman and child.

The land burned over during the terrible fires on the Idaho national forest in 1910 is now largely covered with a thick growth of young tree seedlings, by natural reseeding.

Manufacturers of artificial limbs are seeking substitutes for English willow, used because of its combined lightness and strength. It is claimed that Port Orford cedar on the Pacific coast, will prove equally serviceable.

In the open yellow pine forests of Washington and Oregon a collapsible plow is being used for digging fire lines to stop surface fires. The plow can be dismantled and folded into a compact form so that it can be packed on horseback, and weighs only 40 pounds. When in use, one man with a horse can do the work of twenty or more men working with shovels.

Single Suffrage Convert.

A little woman, elderly and an invalid, sat in her wheeled chair and announced herself an ardent suffragette working hard for the cause. "Even though I cannot walk"—pointing to helplessly paralyzed legs—"nor write"—slowly lifting one of her rheumatism-crippled hands—"I can talk distinctly. And the earnest suffragettes who can talk to the extent of converting one young woman to the cause has not lived in vain. That woman, converted to suffragism in her youth, will make at least two converts in her lifetime wherever she may be living, and those two converts will make as many more. And so my effort will be as spreading in its effect as is an endless chain letter. If a single convert will do that much, isn't the effort worth while?"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Cures for Snoring.

One of the most respected citizens of Winsted, Mass., offers $100 as a reward to any one who will break him of the habit of snoring, which has made him a goat in his own home, so to speak. This is a golden opportunity. Somebody will tell him to sleep on his face, to hang himself on the hatrack o' nights, to bandage his face shut before going to sleep, to put wire screens in his nose, to wear a clothespin or safety pin in his nose, to cork his nose tightly each night, to stay awake, to sleep in the cellar, to tent in the open air, or—oh, any of a dozen or two more cures, and if he pays for them all he'll be so worried over his financial condition that he won't sleep at all, and hence won't snore—and so his desire will become a fact accomplished, you see.

In Defense of Mother Tongue.

Italy, as well as France, now has the football craze, and the fact has caused Sig. Luciano Zuccoli to raise a cry of alarm on behalf of his mother tongue. He complains that the most musical of all languages is being debased by the introduction of harsh sounding sporting terms imported from England, although for many of these, such as "match," "rush" and "trial," there are satisfactory home-made equivalents. One of the largest athletic bodies in Italy has an entirely English name, "The Milan Football and Cricket club." Yet football, Sig. Zuccoli points out, is a direct descendant of the old Roman game, "harpastum."

There are also a number of commercial weed killers in the market which can be bought at seed stores. Applications of weed destroyers should best be made on a hot day, or right after a rain, with a watering pot (sprinkler), and one good application is usually sufficient for the season. As the most of them contain poison, either arsenic or acids, great care should be exercised in handling them.

Give Court Two Opinions.

Judge Cullen's opinion in substance was that the provision of the constitution which limited the acts of the legislature in extra session to such subjects as were recommended to it by the governor should be given a reasonable construction. It upheld the contention of the prosecution that the provision referred to the legislature as a whole and not to the assembly as an independent body.

"So construed," said Judge Cullen, "these subjects all relate to what the legislature as a body can do, and not to the power vested in one branch of the legislature."

Seizure of Koritsa Mission School by Greeks Raises Diplomatic Question.

Washington, Sept. 23.—State department officials said that the reported seizure of the American mission school at Kortisa, Albania, by Greeks would raise an important diplomatic question, as the status of American institutions in Albania has not been determined under the new territorial delimitations growing out of the war between the Balkan allies and Turks, and the later conflict among the allies themselves.

No official report of the seizure of the school had been received, but the state department is prepared to protest to the Greek government vigorously for the protection of Americans and their property in Albania, under the new political order.

It is a rather tedious process, and hard on tools to remove weeds or grass from walks by hoeing or cutting them out between the stones, but there are a number of chemicals or sprays which can be used with good success.

1. Salt. Take one pound of salt to one gallon of water, boil and apply while still hot, or dry salt may be used and then watered in; but this will color the walk more or less and is not quite so effective.

2. Crude carbolic acid, one-half ounce of the liquid to one gallon of water will also destroy ants.

3. Sulphuric acid, four-fifths ounce of the acid to one gallon of water. Best applied with a wooden pall.

Salt in Proper Quantities of Material Benefit to Hens.

Food Prepared for Human Taste With Mineral Is Not Injurious or Repellent to Poultry—Result a New York Station.

It is a tradition that salt is craved by, and is beneficial, to all domestic and many wild animals, with the exception of poultry, and that to these it is poison. That in large quantities this is true is an undoubted fact, as has often been tested.

Some years ago the writer was quite horrified upon going to the barnyard one afternoon to find a dozen or more fine hens lying about dead. In looking for the cause of this sudden mortality one of the cow's messes was found to be uneaten, and a close examination showed that the attendant, either through ignorance or carelessness, had dumped upon it a pint of salt—too much to be relished even by a bossy—and after the cattle had been turned into the pasture, the chickens, that had free range, ate it freely, and so rapid was the action of the salt that some hens died but a few feet away. An examination of the crops confirmed the supposition that it was the heavily salted bran that had proved fatal, says a writer in the Farm Progress.

The big hit of the piece was made by Will Stanton as Lord Lovall. As an intoxicated character he rivals even Billy Reeves. He kept the audience in continual laughter. Bobby Robbins scored heavily as the Jew.

Hattie Kirchner took first money. Her specialty in the second act is playing the violin and she was encored at least eight times, and with the assistance of Stanton kept the house laughing. She is some violin player and besides she is pretty, as is appreciated by all who saw her.

A dancing act by three of the cast brought much applause and the singing of one girl in the action of the piece was excellent. She, whoever she is, has a high soprano voice and in The Trail of the Lonesome Pine, a sentimental song she sang, made that voice effective. The lady with the baritone voice was also a favorite. The Tango was danced by a good looking fellow and a girl and was neatly done.

FAMILY THEATRE

A strong diversified program will be seen at the Family the first half of this week, the bill including Grohams Cats and Rats, a novelty offering which demonstrates the wonderful results that can be obtained by careful and skillful training of these animals. This number will prove interesting and entertaining to people of all ages.

As an extra attraction the management has secured Wilbur Harrington & Co. in their oddity entitled Bits of Vaudeville, a very fine act.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Pisa, Italy, Sept. 23.—Giacomo Puccini, the composer, had a narrow escape from drowning in Lake Massa-Ciuccoli, on the shore of which he has a villa. While steering his autoboot he collided with another autoboot containing the members of his family. Both boats were badly damaged and began to fill rapidly. Other crafts rushed to their assistance and Puccini and his family were taken aboard. Children Drown in Rain Barrel.

Marmarth, N. D., Sept. 23.—Laughing at their reflections in a barrel of rain water, the two small daughters of Mrs. Herman Ostrander, overbalanced and tumbled into the vessel. Their bodies were discovered by Capt. Wells. Years later he marries the girl, though she loves an artist, but feels under obligation to him. After her marriage the artist comes into her life again, but she realizes her duty just as she is about to elope with the artist, and turns back to her husband.

THEO. J. MILLER & SONS

Painting for Jurors.

The other day the jury of the Seine district, Paris, addressed a request, such as only a French jury could make, to the chancellery. To beguile the tediousness of the long examinations and pleadings the jurors asked that above the seats of the judges, on the walls of the room, should be placed a copy of Prudhon's great painting, "Justice Pursuing Crime." This picture was painted a century ago to ornament the hall of the court of assize. After Napoleon, under the restoration, the picture was considered too dramatic and was replaced by a crucifix. When the republic, an enemy of religious emblems, came, the crucifix was ordered away and in its place was nothing but tinted wall paper. The keeper of the seals did not refuse the request of the jurors and placed before them the painting which, it is hoped, may happily inspire them to do justice.

Why He Was Boycotted.

All the policemen in this city are in a state of uneasiness and no wonder; only the gods know whose head is to be lopped off next. Patrolman Peace had felt for some time that everything was not as it should be. His popularity had obviously waned and his companions rather avoided him. His captain noticed it and called the patrolman into his office. "Peace," he said, "is there anything in your life with which I am unacquainted?" The patrolman shuffled and smiled sheepishly. "Don't be foolish," said the officer. "We can't have mysteries here. What is all this boycotting about?" "Well," said Peace in a hoarse whisper, "I'm clarinet in band. It's not an easy job—and one night the boys heard me."—London Answers.

One Thing He Couldn't Do.

The bartender grasped the man next the stove by the shoulder and shook him until he was awake. "Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd better go out and get some fresh air. It'll do you good." Zeph merely grunted drunkenly and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again, with like result. "You won't get out, won't you?" he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his parting advice. "Y' kin put me out if y' like, but—" Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take no air, durn ye!"—Everybody's Magazine.

English Royal Jewels.

King George, says a London dispatch, has a great idea of his responsibility in regard to the jewels at the various royal palaces, and from time to time has them recatalogued and revalued. Those at Buckingham palace were recently assessed and declared to be worth $16,500,000. It is said that there is scarcely an object in the whole collection with which the king is not familiar. New measures of safety have been adopted and it would now be impossible for the cleverest burglar in Europe to make an entrance without attracting attention. An electric alarm was recently added. The police guard around the palace has also been increased.

Verbatim.

This, from my Cambridge messenger boy friends, is reproduced verbatim: "The old bridge works field is getting a foundation laid for a new building which is getting built by the Boston bridge works and company. When the boys of East Cambridge used to get chased away from the Sixth street bridge where they used to go swimming they used to run into this building and get there cloths on before the policeman caught them. So they will lose a good place to get away from the police when they get chased next summer."—Boston Post.

Candles Used as a Clock.

Various experiments for measuring time were in use before the invention of clocks. Alfred the Great caused six tapers to be made for his daily use. Each taper was 12 inches long, and of proportionate diameter. The whole length was divided into 12 parts of one inch each, of which three would burn for one hour, so that each taper would be consumed in four hours. The six tapers, lighted one after another, lasted 24 hours.

DEVICE FOR KILLING PESTS

California Man Hits Upon Apparatus for Extermination of Rodents While in Their Nests.

An entirely new device for killing rodents seems to have been hit upon by a California man, in that it is used on the pests in their nests. A large tank contains a chemical which is forced out through a flexible tube by means of an air pump. With the tube extending into the hole, the push button on top of the cylinder is pressed.

Rodent Exterminator.

says the Popular Electricity. This completes the circuit of the battery and coil, placed underneath the cylinder, causing a spark to occur at the nozzle tip exploding the mixture as it passes out of the tube and forming a gas designed to kill the rodents.

Selecting Male Hog.

In selecting a male hog, good bone is a very desirable thing to look for. A heavy boned hog weighs better than a light boned one, and its costs no more to raise him. Breeding weight in the form of bone is cheaper than feeding corn to put on fat. A good boned hog is also less liable to "go down" when finished.

Profitable Turkey Hens.

Turkey hens are profitable until five years of age, but it is a good plan to change the gobblers every year. It requires twenty-eight days to hatch a turkey egg, and seven eggs is considered a setting. The nests should be on the ground.

THOMAS A. EDISON

This is the latest photograph of the great inventor, made just before his illness.

"Lorna Doone's" Popularity.

Richard Blackmore's romance, "Lorna Doone," was by no means a success on its first publication. The public gave it but grudging approval, and, like many another good novel, it might have hovered on the verge of oblivion but for the opportune marriage of the Marquis of Lorne. Then, for the first time, did the initial word of the book's title, "Lorna," catch the eye of the public, who, imagining that it must have reference to the queen's new son-in-law, rushed to get a copy, which, if it made no reference to the Argyle family, afforded in its charming Devonshire story ample compensation to its purchasers.

Warned of Coming Death.

The story of the Lyttleton ghost is one of the best of English family legends. Thomas Lord Lyttleton dreamed one night that a bird flew into his room, which changed into a woman in white, and bade him prepare to die. "I hope not soon," he said; "not in two months." "Yes, in three days," replied the spectre. He told of the dream at breakfast next morning (Thursday, November 25, 1779). On Saturday he was in excellent health, and thought he would "bilk the ghost." A few minutes before midnight on that day, just as he was undressing, he fell back dead.

Convicts on the Farm.

A great reform in the penal system of New Jersey will begin to operate next month when the first 50 convicts will be transferred from the state prison at Trenton to the prison farm in Cumberland county. The tract of 1,000 acres owned by the state will eventually be a busy scene, with hundreds of prisoners earning their keep in agricultural labor. It is a genuine reformatory measure, for country life and the consciousness of being helpful producers will better both their physique and their self-respect.—Newark Evening Star.

German Women in Trades.

There are now nine and a half million wage-earning women in Germany, due to the urgent demand of the factories for female labor. The textile factories of Prussia and Saxony alone absorb 400,000 women, and women are also employed in the factories of Bavaria, Baden, Württemberg, Hesse and Alsace-Lorraine. The artificial flower industry is altogether in women's hands, and they control the toy business to a very great extent. The clock-making industry of the Black Forest, the hand weaving trades of Silesia, and the basket industry of Thuringia find work for multitudes of women.

Details Overlooked.

A Scotsman was riding a donkey one day across a sheep pasture, but when the animal came to a sheep drain he would not go over. So the man rode back a short distance, turned and applied the whip, thinking, of course, that the donkey when at top speed would jump the drain. But when the donkey got to the drain he stopped sharply and the man went over his head and cleared the drain. No sooner had he touched the ground than he got up, and, looking the beast straight in the face, said: "Verra well pitched, but, then, hoo are ye goin' to get ower yersel'?"

Feathers in Men's Hats.

Men may soon try to outdo women in the matter of head adornment. It is rumored that aigrettes are worn at present by a great number of London's male population. A fashionable London hatter is predicting a great future for men's aigrettes. For some time past one brand of men's hats has been bedecked with a small feather, but this has gradually developed into a tuft, as large as that worn on women's headgear. Pheasant's claws are mixed with the feathers, and a metal ornament finishes off the stag brush at its base. They cost from $4 to $5 apiece.

Oil the Cheaper Fuel.

Some interesting figures were recently obtained by a three months' test of oil fuel on a revenue cutter on the Pacific coast, showing the economy of oil as compared with coal. The coal bill for a similar period at $5.40 per ton amounted to $694.44, while that for oil at 60 cents per gallon was $153.32, a saving of $544.08. Another comparison shows the cost of steaming was 54 cents per mile with coal and only 6.0 cents with oil. The personnel, moreover, has been reduced from four to three men. This amounts annually to a saving of $647.

Queen and Bookmen.

"I was told the other day that when Dickens had an interview with the Queen, she kept him standing all the time, and although kind enough in her manner, treated him de haut en bas, not even offering to shake hands with him when he took his departure. With Carlyle the case was somewhat different. The old Scotsman calmly took the initiative. Having greeted the Queen with due respect on her entry, he observed confidentially: 'And noo, your majesty, I would remind you that I am a verra old man, and so I will tak' a chair' and down he sat without any permission on her part. He then, with equal freedom, proceeded to criticize her ministry, and gave her much unsolicited advice, which, nevertheless, showed a foresight she might have made use of. The Queen, however, was much affronted at his freedom of speech, and after the interview declared that she would see no more literary men!"—The Letterbag of Lady Elizabeth Spencer-Stanhope, by A. M. W. Stirling.

CONVENIENT HOG COTS

Animal Must Have Ample Protection From Rain and Cold.

Corn and Other Feeds Make Them Grow, But Dampness Takes Off Weight Almost as Fast as Put On—House Simple Affair.

It is a great mistake and poor business management to raise hogs, feed them high-priced corn and then allow them to be in the rain and cold. Some farmers think that because a hog is a hog it can get along with any kind of shelter or with no shelter at all. The corn and other feeds you give may make them grow, but dampness will take off weight almost as fast as it is put on. With only a small amount of money spent for lumber and roofing for building comfortable houses, sows, pigs and mature hogs will bring in larger profits in the hog business. Hogs of all kinds like cool shade, and cool places for wallowing and sleeping during the warmer months.

The efficient hog house is a simple affair, and can be built by anyone with only a small cash outlay. It need not be more than four feet high in the rear and slightly more in the front to allow slope for the roof. The sides should be short. The lumber for them will not cost much, but it should be of good material to keep out rains and winds. Probably the best roof for hog houses is that of heavy felt. This is to be laid on tight fitting or matched boards. Galvanized iron also makes a good roof, and is to be recommended for the movable houses. When iron of any kind is used for the roof it should be laid on solid boards, as iron is very hot in summer when the sun shines, and is cold in winter.

Since a hog house need not be too large the farmer who keeps several sows and is growing a large number of pigs each year should have a half-dozen or more of these houses on the farm and in convenient places. Some farmers have all their hog houses near the barn and other buildings, but I do not think this is a good practice. Hogs of different ages and sizes will not do well in one herd, says a writer in an exchange. They should be separated into small herds, according to their ages and conditions. Sows and growing pigs should not be allowed to be on the same lot with fattening hogs. The excessive corn diet is not good for their growth and production, and with large fattening hogs the smaller ones will be crowded and injured. Too many hogs in one pen are more apt to contract disease than when they are put into several lots and smaller bunches.

When the farm is divided into small fields and each field is fenced hog tight it will pay to have at least one hog house in each field, so that it can be pastured with hogs at some time each year, thus saving and turning to good account all the waste forage.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

$500,000 INCOMES ARE HIT

House Conference Agree to Raise Rate as Asked by Senate.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The senate conference on the tariff bill won their fight for a heavier tax on large incomes when the house members of the conference committee agreed to accept the senate amendment increasing the tax rate to a maximum of seven per cent. on incomes of more than $500,000. The amount of income that is to be free from tax, fixed at $4,000 by the house and $3,000 by the senate; the exemption to be allowed on account of families and the provisions to be applied to mutual insurance companies still are at issue.

The deductions that are to be allowed from ordinary incomes, in arriving at the "net income" that is to bear tax, were adopted practically as determined upon in the senate. These deductions varied in several particulars from the provisions originally made by the house.

New York, Sept. 23.—Morris Metzgar, a wealthy resident of Rockaway Beach, and a lifelong friend of the late Mayor Gaynor, hanged himself in his barn. The floor of the barn was littered with newspapers giving accounts of the last honors that were being paid Mayor Gaynor. Friends of Mr. Metzgar say he has brooded continuously since news of the mayor's death at sea was received here and they attribute his suicide to the loss of his friend.
